If the date is in the future by more days than the Lead number the date is in black.

If the date is in the future by fewer days than the Lead number the date is in blue to show it is near to expiring.

If the date is in the past the date is in red to show that it is Expired.

Tempdesk, Expiry Dates. New filters added.

(2.15.11+)

To improve the ease of searching within Temp Desk - Expiry Dates, new filters have been added - 'Working this week' and 'Person state'.

Temp Desk - Expiry Dates - Working this week filter (click button) - Person State filter click buttons.

(2.20.4+)

Where Consultants share a Temp Desk yet very much have 'their OWN candidates' the Consultant can be set individually to having a User drop-down on the Temp Desk which will filter to their records on Temps, Placements and Expiry Dates views.

This does not affect the other views - several Consultants are likely to enter all Vacancies and Timesheets can be completed by a wide range of Users.

If the Agency has turned on the Setting to have a different member of staff allocated for Compliance functions then on the Expiry Dates view there are radio buttons for filtering to records linked to the Compliance or Booking Consultant, with the default selection being that of the Compliance.

A screenshot of a web application window titled 'Expiry Dates'. The window has a light blue header bar with standard window controls (minimize, maximize, close). Below the header, there is a green background area. On the left, the word 'Consultant' is followed by a dropdown menu showing 'HENRY'. Below this, there is a checkbox labeled 'Working this week' and a text input field labeled 'Filter'. To the right of the 'Filter' field, there are two radio buttons: 'Compliance Consultant' (which is selected) and 'Person Consultant'.

2.22.9+ expiry dates can be linked to candidate states, each state can either be Included or Excluded from the expiry dates. Where they have been excluded they still show in the list but are greyed out so the user can see they are not relevant.
